SURPLUS CROP PROBLEM UP FOR DECISION

Tincher, Curtis-Aswell and Haugen Measures Submitted To Lower Body By Agriculture Committee, With Recommendation For Action Next Week.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Widely different plans for solution of the surplus crop problem were submitted to the house today by members of its agriculture committee which has been delving into the situation for several months without reaching an agreement on any single measure.

The plan which has the endorsement of Secretary Jardine was reported by Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas. It would provide a special agency with a $100,000,000 loan fund to aid co-operative marketing associations in disposing of surplus crops and thus, Mr. Tincher said, "bring about stabilized prices and the orderly flow of farm products into consumptive channels through machinery set up, operated and managed by the farmers themselves."

Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, presented the Curtis-Aswell commodity marketing bill which calls for an appropriation of only ten million dollars to establish national and subsidiary sectional marketing associations, owned, controlled and operated by farmers. This plan, he argued, provides for permanent rather than temporary relief and contemplates a national rather than sectional system of organization.

Chairman Haugen of committee introduced his bill to authorize a revolving fund of $375,000,000 to stabilize prices of basic farm commodities. He said it was evident farmers could not at this time acquire funds necessary for the purpose.

Tincher Explains Bill.

Mr. Tincher asserted that the administration proposal "places at the disposal of farmer-controlled agencies additional resources of the government and will strengthen their development along sound and constructive lines."

Mr. Aswell in setting the merits he claimed for his bill compared them with certain features he ascribed to the other proposals. His bill, he said proposes:

"Farmer control and management—not government control of farm marketing.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 27.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Herald today said the body of Santiago Platero, Navajo Indian, charged with the murder of J. N. Kimmel, government cattle inspector, fifty miles north of the Crown Point Indian agency, was found yesterday hanging from a tree near the scene of the murder.

A coroner's jury found that Platero had come to his death by hanging by parties unknown.

Superintendent Stoner of the Indian agency, and his officers today are investigating the circumstances surrounding the seizure of the Indian.

MUSCLE SHOALS LEASE ADVISED

Joint Committee Recommends Operation By Associated Power Firms.

Bill Prepared For Congress Is Opposed In Both Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lease of Muscle Shoals for fifty years to the Alabama and twelve associated power companies was recommended Monday by a majority of the joint congressional committee appointed to negotiate for the operation of the government's property by private interests.

In reaching its findings the committee split three ways. Four members favored the power company's offer, while Senator Heflin, democrat, voted for the American Cyanamide Co.'s bid and Representatives James, republican, Michigan, opposed both proposals.

The majority report was signed by Chairman Dineen, Senator Sackett, republican, Kentucky; Representatives Morin, republican, Pennsylvania, and Quinn, democrat, Mississippi.

A bill to authorize a lease to the power companies was filed in the senate and house with the accompanying reports. No discussion was provoked in the house, but Chairman Norris of the senate agriculture committee, advocate of government operation of Muscle Shoals, made an effort to have the bill referred to this committee. He was blocked by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, who sought to have it placed on the senate calendar so it could be called up for consideration at any time. Vice President Dawes ruled in favor of Senator Heflin but Senator Norris kept the bill off the calendar by having it laid on the table until today.

Call Up Bill Wednesday.

Leaders plan to call the bill up in the house Wednesday, with Representative James expected to make a point of order that it violates the resolution creating the committee which stipulated that Muscle Shoals was to be dedicated primarily to national defense for the production of ammunition in time of war and agriculture in time of peace. The bill does neither, he asserts, but is "a power proposition, disguised as a fertilizer proposal."

With a fight expected in both the house and senate on the committee's recommendation, leaders expressed doubt whether there would be legislation at this session definitely disposing of the problem which has vexed congress for several years.

Chairman Dineen declared the majority favored the power company's proposal because it adequately met requirements of national defense and appeared to be the most beneficial to agriculture. It provides for production of 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen annually, 20,000 tons within six years and the amount thereafter increasing to meet demands.

NEW BATCH DRY BILLS PRESENTED

Supplementary Enforcement Measures Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 27.— (By the Associated Press.)— Another batch of administration bills, designed to strengthen the federal arm of prohibition enforcement, was presented Monday to Congress.

They supplement measures recently introduced and are regarded by Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, as essential to a full effort by the government to dry up the liquor supply.

Chairman Cummins of the state judiciary committee, became sponsor for the measure which deals with review of liquor permits, the search and seizure of ships within the twelve-mile limit and the employment of retired army, navy, marine corps and coast guard officers and men by the prohibition unit and authorizes customs collectors to refuse to register craft that they believe are designed as rum runners.

One section of one of the bills, which would give the prohibition commissioner blanket authority to issue regulations for the enforcement of the Volstead act, aroused wet senators, who said they would oppose it with all the power at their command. Even some of the dry senators said such a proposal would have little chance of getting through congress since it reposed entirely too much authority in the treasury.

General Andrews said the provision was not intended as a "joker" as some wet senators thought, and was practically the same as a provision in the existing law except that it might be a little broader in terms.

The section reads as follows:

"The (prohibition) commissioner, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, may issue such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of the national prohibition act."

The new prohibition measures will be referred to the senate judiciary sub-committee, which has held hearings on a number of modification proposals sponsored by wet senators, as well as the Goff bill designed to put additional teeth into the Volstead act.

JUDGE TALKS AT LEGION MEETING

Eberly Condemns Movement Against Compulsory Drill At University.

Judge George A. Eberly, of the Supreme court commission, spoke Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Lincoln post of the American Legion on "Compulsory Military Training in the University."

He called attention to the fact that the Land-Grant act, under which the drill operates, was passed when Lincoln was president and has since been continued. Referring to the opposition to the drill he said that while he did not question the motives of the sponsors of the opposition, yet their plans were in perfect harmony with the bolsheviki.

It was announced that the membership of the post has reached 1,160, exceeding last year's number at the end of the year. The drive will be continued.

Col. William Mitchell will appear at the city auditorium here May 15, under the auspices of the Legion, it was announced.

A delegation from the Omaha post will attend the next meeting, May 10.

Flying News, Two Kinds. Official Incompetency. Postoffice Efficiency. Ford's 3-Motor Ship.

By Arthur Brisbane

Colonel Mitchell knows flying, his record as a flying officer excels that of any other man of rank in the United States army.

Those that know nothing about flying and kicked him out of the army, rendered, unintentionally, a great service to the United States. For Mitchell today is telling the people, without interference from swivel-chair "higher ups" truths that the people should hear.

It is a pleasure to give to an audience of a good many millions a few extracts from Colonel Mitchell's recent talk in Pasadena. The Pacific coast, facing Asia, and deeply interested in flying machine protection, welcomes Mitchell. Let the people consider these statements from a competent man.

"We are so far behind the times," Colonel Mitchell asserted, "that we don't even know what an honest-to-goodness airplane looks like. Despite the fact that we have spent $500,000,000 in the United States since the World war, just playing around with aviation, our people have no adequate conception of what air power means. Competent officers are resigning from the air service of the army and navy, disgusted by their inability to get anywhere with a constructive program. The United States today has not more than 450 first-class air pilots, despite the large number of well-trained men available here at the end of the war."

The fault is not with this country, which invented the flying machine, and not with American fliers, or American manufacturers, but with official indifference. Listen to this from Colonel Mitchell:

"Planes are being built today in the outskirts of Los Angeles capable of making a nonstop flight to Hawaii and back; of flying from this city to New York in 20 hours; or of making a nonstop flight from New York City to Pekin, China. That is the answer as to what air power could do in this country were it not throttled by the army and navy."

Fortunately there is a little light in the darkness, for our great business men and great industrialists, unlike some of our imitation statesmen and amateur defense chiefs, are not sound asleep. General Mitchell says:

"The thing we need is development of civil aviation, bearing in mind that from 90 to 100 per cent of the planes and men used in commercial aviation would be available and usable in event of war.

"The congress of the United States should appropriate $6,000,000 a year for a few years in developing commercial aviation."

The Boers held their British enemies at bay for years because each Boer had a rifle and knew how to use it. Our revolutionary ancestors were able to deal with British red-coats effectively, because they had rifles, employed on Indians and bears, and knew how to use them.

Within a few years, fortunately, 50,000 young Americans will be able to fly, take pride in learning how to drop bombs and use a quick-firing gun in the air. That will solve our problem. Meanwhile the whole country is wide open to attack, and all the world knows it.

This writer is able to state, with authority, that Henry and Edsel Ford are working energetically on a new three-motor airship, as nearly fool-proof as possible. In such a machine, the pilot would have two engines to rely upon if one went wrong, one to rely on, and able to keep the ship going if two went "dead."

The chances are a thousand to one against all three going wrong at the same time.

At the earliest possible moment, the Fords will put these three-motor machines in "production," which means they will turn them out as fast as anybody will buy them.

And within three or four years the Fords hope to produce in quantities "a three or four-passenger airship, reasonable in price."

Meanwhile, President Coolidge and Postmaster General New are developing a real postoffice flying service, encouraging private enterprise to build ships and put them in the air.

If this policy continues, as it undoubtedly will while Coolidge is president, the nation will have, eventually, in the postoffice service alone more ships than any European power has, and a magnificent air army of well-trained fliers.

And then it won't be necessary to worry about an incompetent navy that cannot fly to Hawaii and back, but that can spend millions in a year, not flying.

Meanwhile rich old Uncle Sam has been running great risks. It is luck for him that the world finds itself half bankrupt, and tired of war, with its chief war lords extinguished, just as flying, deadly gases, and the other new weapons are discovered.

River States' Solons Prepare To Organize

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—Steps looking to the organization of house delegations from states bordering the Mississippi and Missouri rivers for the purpose of promoting navigation development of the two rivers are expected to be taken at the capitol this week.

Representative Sears of Nebraska, Boies of Iowa, and Ellis of Missouri are republican leaders in the movement, while Representative Howard, democrat, Nebraska, is sponsoring the proposal among the democrats.

The purpose of the organization would be the navigability of the two streams. The support of democrats in southern states is expected.

ROADS SAY RAISE MEANS SALVATION

Brief of Carriers Declares West Will Scarcely Feel Added Burden.

Claims Inadequacy Of Returns Admitted By Opponents of Advance.

WASHINGTON, April 27. — (By the Associated Press.)—A 5 per cent increase in freight rate revenue, spread over the entire western district, "may mean the salvation of many western railroads," said a brief prepared for filing with the interstate commerce commission Monday. The brief is intended as a reply to arguments opposing the plea of the western railways for a 5 per cent freight rate increase.

"To contend that the present volume of traffic cannot stand this meager increase is to challenge the very foundations of this immense western empire," said the brief. "An industrial structure such as west reveals will scarcely feel so light a load.

"All our opponents admit that during the last five years the western railroads earned a fair return. It has been conceded that the western railways have failed to secure the same rate of return which the railways in the other two rate districts in the United States have been permitted to earn.

The inadequacy of the present earnings of the western carriers is admitted even by our opponents.

Discuss Opposition.

"Upon what then do they base their opposition? In addition to the old standbys, further objections have been put forward based on imaginative interpretation of the Hoch-Smith bill and on the statement that there are 'controlling political influences; using the term 'political' in its highest sense for disregarding the doctrines laid down by courts in respect to the valuation upon which railway concerns are to me computed.

"As regards the Hock-Smith resolution, this law on its face is clearly designed to protect the railways in the western district as well as in other rate groups in receiving a fair return which is contemplated by the transportation act.

"If the law and evidence here entitles us to an advance in the general freight rate level, such an advance should be authorized. If the law and evidence here shows that we are not entitled to such an advance, it should be denied. But the decision must be based upon law and not upon 'controlling political reasons.'"

EFFORT TO FIND WILKINS FAILURE

Major Lanphier Forced to Turn Back When Detroiter Motor Fails.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 27.—(By the Associated Press.) — The first attempt to locate Capt. G. H. Wilkins, leader of a polar expedition and his aviator, Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, who have been missing since April 15, ended in failure yesterday.

Major Thomas G. Lanphier, U. S. A., who left here yesterday morning for Point Barrow, Alaska, on the Arctic circle in the Detroiter, an airplane belonging to the expedition was forced to return after reaching the Yukon river 100 miles north. Wilkins and Eielson left Fairbanks for Point Barrow in the Alaskan, another plane of the expedition, and were to return soon for more supplies. They were last reported seen over the dg of the Arctic ocean, west of Barrow on the same day they left.

Major Lanphier was forced back after he saw he could not cross the Brooks range, half way mark on on the flight to Barrow. One of the cylinders of the central engine was useless and it was almost impossible to keep the machine in the air.

White Star Line Reported Sold To British Company

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)— A provisional agreement for the sale of the White Star line to a British shipping syndicate headed by Furness, Withey & Co., Ltd., has been arranged in London, officials of the International Mercantile Marine corporation were advised by cable Monday.

While the terms of the transaction were not made officially, it is understood that the corporation will receive for the White Star fleet L7,500,000, or more than $36,000,000, payable partly in cash and partly in short term debentures. This will enable the company to reduce its capital or funded debt with the prospects favoring the retirement of $36,641,000 outstanding 6 per cent bonds.

Wholesale Prices Continue Decline

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—The level of wholesale prices declined during March for the fourth consecutive month, it was reported Monday by the federal reserve board. Industrial production increased last month while the distribution of commodities continued in larger volume also as a result of seasonal influences.

Commercial loans of member banks in leading cities remained constant up to the middle of April at a level almost equal to the high point reached last autumn.

The liquidation of loans to brokers and dealers continued and on April 14, their total was $500,000,000 below the high point reached at the end of the year. The decline was regarded at the treasury as a result of the recent stock market slump.

Mrs. Hanna, Dallas, Texas, New Head of National Y. W. C. A.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 27.—(AP)—Selection of Mrs. John M. Hanna of Dallas, Tex., as president, and refusal to limit the voting membership to those professing Jesus Christ as their savior, marked the session yesterday of the biennial convention of the Young Woman's Christian association of the United States.

The new president succeeded Mrs. Frederick M. Paist, Wayne, Pa., who declined to accept another term.

Attempts to limit the electorate to members of the Protestant evangelical church failed when the convention refused with only 144 dissenting votes to accept the substitute amendment that would have required voting members to profess Jesus Christ as their savior. The action Saturday requiring only a pledge from voting members that they "desire to enter a Christian fellowship in the association," as a substitute was finally adopted.

All officers of the Y. W. C. A., and members of the national board governing body of the organization who will serve during the next two years were announced, together with the officers of the student assembly of the Y. W. C. A., whose membership comprises 108,000 students in the higher institutions of the country.

Bombs and rifle bullets finally routed him out, but the report adds that the following morning a devilfish was cleared from the pool.

Opinion on Old Taxes—County Attorney Matson has submitted to the county commissioners an opinion to the effect that the board has no legal right to remit old taxes. The opinion co-incides with that rendered by the office of the attorney general and was requested because of the fact that it has been discovered that the records show that tax levied on a portion of the land on which the Terminal building now stands has not been paid. The interest now amounts to several times the amount of the original tax, which is in fact supposed to have been paid, though not so marked. There now appears no way of clearing the record, except by the payment of the tax.

CRITICISM FOR CITY HOSPITAL

Oberlies Bible Class Complain Of Lack of Care For "Worthy Poor."

Criticism, alleging that the Lincoln General hospital has not been caring for the "worthy poor," is made against that institution, in a resolution approved by the Oberlies class of the First Christian church recently, and a copy of which reached Mayor Zehrung Tuesday morning.

The resolution says that complaint is made after an investigation made by a committee of the class covering an extended period. Much of the information on which the criticism is based being obtained in conferences with J. L. Teeters and W. R. Mellor, members of the board of directors of the hospital, it is stated. A copy of the resolution was also sent to Mr. Teeters.

If this condition is allowed to continue, the resolution states, there doubtless will be a loss of future gifts and donations for charitable purposes and for the work of the hospital. "This would further retard the work of helping the 'worthy poor' according to the findings.

According to the investigators, they were unable to find any instances where charity work has been done. Rather do the records of the institution show that what might have been charity patients have been satalogued as "bad accounts."

A preamble sets out that the hospital was erected by donations, a bond issue by the city and $100,000 given by R. E. Moore. The voluntary subscriptions and the bond issue, it is declared, were made with the understanding that the institution was to be a charity hospital where "worthy poor" could be taken for treatment.

These men signed the resolution: Lloyd Dort, F. A. Good, O. C. Bell, Fenton Fleming, George Coryell, Paul Goss, L. C. Oberlies, Adrian Newens, W. W. Wood, H. H. Smith, Don Critchfield and J. H. Loper.

The lectures by the Delso engineers will be upon the general topic of "Mechanical Refrigeration."

City Bought 18 Autos In Year

City Clerk Berg Tuesday was requested to supply data on the number of automobiles purchased by the city since April 1, 1925. The records show eighteen were bought at a cost of $14,294. Of this amount $9,087.82 was expended from the tax money and $5,206.85 by the water and light, and the muny gas and muny coal, for the operation of which no taxes are levied.

The money expended from taxes went for the purchase of thirteen cars distributed to the fire, police, road, park, health and engineering departments.

Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

SEX LITERATURE WARMLY SCORED

Mrs. Bayard Paine Says Salacious Magazines Have Evil Influence.

Urges Club Women To Take Steps Against Their Circulation.

HARVARD, Neb., April 27.—(By The Associated Press.)—In an address on literature and law observance prepared for delivery at today's opening session of the annual fifth district convention of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Bayard H. Paine of Grand Island, state chairman of literature, scored the evil influence of sex appeal magazines and urged the women's clubs and club organizations throughout the state to continue their efforts to rid their community of salacious magazines."

"The time has come," Mrs. Paine declared, "when we all realize there must be a change in our attitude toward law and that for the sake of others if not for our own sake, we must as a matter of principle submit ourselves to the observance of law.

"Literature touches upon law observance and directly or indirectly reaches out to exert its influence upon us in every form. Literature has always reflected the spirit of the times in which it was created and is doing so in this restless age. [illegible]

Such Flavor

as this comes only in real Quaker Oats

THE price you pay for substitutes is the same as for the genuine Quaker Oats. The difference is in the flavor. And flavor, above all things, is important in oats.

That rich and toasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years' milling experience. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

That is why millions demand the Quaker brand—why you should accept no other.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently "balanced" food.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

THE IMMIGRATION LAW.

Among the negative accomplishments of the present congress which will be put down to its credit is the refusal to weaken the immigration law so as to admit large numbers of immigrants to the United States from certain foreign countries who are not eligible to come in under present restrictions. Demand to have the bars let down was vociferous from New York and other places where the foreign population is already larger than it should be; but the opposition of the west and south prevented this being done.

At the same time, provision is being made for increased funds to be used by the labor department in patrolling the Canadian and Mexican borders to prevent unlawful smuggling of aliens across the line into this country. That will be necessary to make the Johnson law effective, as several hundred thousand persons from Europe and Asia are believed to have come in illegally during the last two years by one or the other of those routes. A good many have also got in by registering as seamen on ships and deserting at the first American port

The specious plea has been frequently reiterated that Uncle Sam should practice a more humane policy by allowing an alien already here to bring in his wife and children, his parents, and his brothers and sisters. If that were permitted, as soon as a foreigner had gained admittance, whether lawfully or unlawfully, he would then be entitled to send for half a dozen to a dozen more of his immediate relatives, and America would have to receive and support them.

This nation is under no obligation whatever to assume the responsibility for problems of overpopulation existing elsewhere in the world. Its duty to its own people is to see that no such situation shall be allowed to develop here in the immediate future. The American standard of living cannot be maintained indefinitely against a swarming invasion from the old world. We have tariffs to keep out the cheap goods of other countries, and it would not be fair to our people who pay these tariffs in higher prices of domestic products to let the manufacturers who are getting the benefit increase their advantage by bringing in cheap laborers to replace American workmen.

After all, however, the policy of restricting immigration which the United States has adopted is based on a more vital consideration than what the effect may be on labor and wages. The primary purpose of that policy is to keep the country from being split up into a number of different racial groups and thus tending to promote national disunity. Its object is to preserve and perpetuate distinctively American conditions, sentiments, ideals, and traditions, which in some of the large cities are less in evidence than they ought to be.

In short, what this country has sought to get away from by means of the Johnson law is to halt the influx of foreigners so that those already here may become more fully Americanized. Our senators, congressmen, and other public officials have been compelled to cater too much to the German vote, the Italian vote, the Polish vote, and the vote of other nationalities concentrated in colonies. So long as large additional contingents of these various nationalities were allowed to come every year, each bloc became more potential in a political way. That is why New York congressmen and senators are so insistent now on reopening the gates to immigrants. They are under the thumb of constituencies dominated by the foreign elements; consequently, their attitude does not reflect the American viewpoint.

The United States cannot be held responsible for the voluntary separation of married couples abroad, or of parents from their children, or of brothers and sisters from each other, where one emigrates to this country within the quota limit of his nationality and leaves the others behind. It is up to the foreign government to see that these people have a chance to become reunited, by giving the relatives of previous emigrants the preference in making up subsequent quotas. America would prefer to have families come instead of individuals; but it is not willing to let them in after the whole quota has been otherwise exhausted.

NEBRASKA'S HIGHER RANK.

Nebraska mounted a notch higher in 1925 in its ranking among the other states of the union in respect to the total value of its farm production, the annual statistical report of the state department of agriculture which was issued Friday, shows. The figures compiled by A. E. Anderson, crop statistician, put Nebraska in fifth place among the agricultural states. In 1924 this state ranked sixth.

The surprising feature of the report is that in the face of this advance, the figures show very material reductions in total value of those crops which have long been considered the backbone of this state's agricultural prosperity. The value of the 1925 corn crop was in round figures $30,000,000 less than the value of the 1924 crop. Likewise the value of last year's winter wheat crop dropped $45,000,000 below that of the previous year. Other reductions were: oats, $2,000,000; hay, $4,000,000; and sugar beets, $1,000,000. The only increase shown in this part of the report, is in the potato crop, the value of which increased two million dollars over that of 1924.

In computing Nebraska's rank a comparison was made between the total value of the farm production of the other states and the value of Nebraska's farm production. Undoubtedly the other leading agricultural states suffered decreases in the values of their corn, wheat and oats crops as did this state. The extent of those decreases no doubt had their influence in enabling this state to step into a higher rank. Though on the face of it that would seem to detract from the credit that is due Nebraska, that very fact offers the greatest reason for satisfaction and encouragement.

The report shows that the value of this state's dairy products increased six million dollars over that of 1924. The value of all poultry produce increased three million dollars over that of the previous year.

Here undoubtedly is the real factor that made possible the higher ranking of Nebraska. Since 1922 Nebraska farmers have turned more and more of their attention to dairying and poultry raising. They are now beginning to realize that although corn and wheat are the big crops, they cannot be depended upon is a sole source of income. Diversified agriculture is gaining steadily in favor and is paying dividends Since 1922 the value of this state's dairy produce has doubled. The records for last year should prove the value of this change the farmer is making in his business methods.

SOME MORE BLUNDERING.

Mr. Kellogg's decision to submit the conditional entry of America to membership in the world court to each individual member through correspondence with each involves a long and tedious process.

It was to avoid this delay that the league of nations' council suggested America should send a representative to a meeting at Geneva, where the reservations which the United States desires accepted, shall be considered and discussed. This was equivalent to waving a red flag in Mr. Kellogg's face. Mindful of the president's sentiments, the secretary of state has bluntly informed the league America will have nothing to do with such an arrangement but will take up the question of American participation through the channel of correspondence. It may take a year, or two years, or much longer before final acceptance of the reservations can be secured. Time is of no consequence. It is really immaterial to the administration whether the United States is represented in the court. On the contrary the suspicion is growing that Mr. Coolidge and his friends would like to be rid of court issue, and will be most grateful if some of the members of the organization will refuse to accept the American conditions.

The trouble in this, as well as in all other instances, results from the silly refusal to recognize the real facts. The world court is an adjunct of the league. When Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg insist they will have nothing to do with it, and at the same time advocate American membership in the world court, they are closing their eyes to the truth. The world court is an adjunct of the league. Membership of the court is passed on by the league. Its activities originate through the league. It was perfectly natural the league should suggest a meeting to pass upon the American reservations, which were to be approved if this country accepted membership. The blunt rejection of the league's good offices will not increase the kindly feeling for America abroad.

HARNESSING NATIVE POWER.

The Dominion of Canada experienced a tremendous expansion in hydro-electric power during the past year and in a bulletin on this subject the Canadian Bank of Commerce of Toronto says: "Of the aggregate new energy created in 1925 approximately 450,000 horsepower was developed primarily for industrial plants and, of course, coincides with the establishment of new industries or extensions of existing mills and mines."

It is a known fact that the development of hydro-electric power is adding more to the wealth of the people than any other single agency. This is because it lessens cost and the amount saved in fuel is just that much saved to be added to the common wealth. The advances made in the south during the last decade have been coincident with the development of this power and the influence exerted has been not only financial, but educational and spiritual.

Nebraska has made considerable progress in recent years in the development of its latent water power, this being notably so along the Blue river, but scarcely more than a beginning has been made. A plant is about to be installed on the Niobrara, but there is room for many more on that stream, probably the swiftest in the state. It is capable of developing almost unlimited power.

The [illegible] offers a great number of opportunities [illegible]ared a few years ago that several of these were about to be taken advantage of, but all of the projects were allowed to drop and have never since been taken up. It is certain that they will be in the course of time, however, and turbines will be spinning in many power houses along the banks of that stream.

Even the slower moving Platte and Republican offer their opportunities, the first hydro-electric plant in the state having been built at Kearney, beside a canal which carries water from the Platte for many miles.

It is only a question of time when people will awaken to the economic waste involved in burning coal for the purpose of hauling coal for long distances to be burned in the creation of energy to be sent back over wires paralleling the lines over which the coal was hauled.

Henry Ford has predicted that the day will come when the great industrial city will be succeeded by small industrial communities scattered all over the country. That day will come when the people harness the power that is rushing by them and wasting itself all over the continent. And it will be the greatest day that the country ever saw.

TIME TO WATER.

A Lincoln landscape artist directs attention to the importance of examining shrubbery and trees at this season of the year to determine if they are in healthy condition.

"We have but a half of inch of rainfall since March 1," he said. "That is far below the normal and much less than is actually needed to provide for growing shrubs and trees. Unless home owners in Lincoln who have gone to a great deal of trouble and expense in planting shrubbery and flowers and trees to beautify their homes take care, the loss will be heavy."

The warning is timely.

There are few cities in the United States where more effort has been made to beautify the residential sections than in Lincoln. A large percentage of the owners of homes have gone to heavy expense to provide proper settings for the houses which have been constructed. Careful watering of shrubbery and trees in the next few days will protect against loss.

A REPUBLICAN RECRUIT.

Edward L. Doheny, the oil magnate, who has occupied much attention in the press, has switched his political affiliation from the democratic to the republican party. There will be no tears shed by the real democrats of America and no rejoicing by the rank and file of the republican party. Irrespective of the legal merits of the case in which Mr. Doheny became entangled, the Californian does not "register" politically.

If it had not been evident on numerous occasions that the oil baron was without the saving grace of a sense of humor, the statement which he issued at the time of his re-registration would have given rise to the suspicion he was really trying to keep his former political friends. Here it is:

"I have registered as a republican for the first time because I decided to affiliate and support the party which more than any other embodies the forces and policies which have produced our unprecedented era of prosperity."

Now recalling the Elk Hill episode, there will be a good many curious to know what Mr. Doheny could have had in mind.

A BIT OF HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

IF YOU ARE ALWAYS ON TIME YOU ARE ALSO DEPENDABLE IN OTHER MATTERS.

"The quality which recommended So-and-So to me is his reputation for being always on time. We need that in our business," said a certain employer.

To be "always on time" is needed in any business.

The big business houses which have gone the farthest toward success are those noted for promptness.

No business is bigger than the individuals who compose its members.

If one person is late, all are affected by it.

Employment agencies sometimes test out the candidate for a job by making an appointment to see if he will keep it promptly.

Dependability has for its backbone, promptness.

"Never late to school, never late to church, never late to an appointment, never missed a train"—that is an enviable record. You are valuable, other things being equal, only as you can be depended upon to be "on-time."

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

NUTS AS A PROTEIN FOOD.

Last week I gave you two recipes for dishes made with nuts as the protein foundation. I hope you will try them and like them and will use nuts often as your protein course.

You know, of course, that it is highly important to get your protein allowance, for protein is that element which is absolutely necessary to build and repair the tissues of the body. After adulthood there is always the need for daily repair (and some building of the new cells of the tissues such as the blood and outer skin that ned new cells.) Before growth is finished naturally there is greater need for protein than afterward. I had better say, a larger need.

No matter what kind of a diet you go on, if it is for any length of time, you must see that you have your daily quota of protein. How much is it?

Well, for adults, the Chittenden standard is approximately one and one half calories of protein for each pound of normal weight. This used to be considered too low and still is considered low by some nutrition experts. This means about 250 C.'s to 350 C.'s a day, the amount depending on the size, frame, and age, not the activities. For increased activities you have to increase the carbohydrates—the starches and sugars—and the fats, for they are the activity, or fuel foods.

Children, as you can readily see, need more protein per pound of body weight daily than do adults. Holt found that at the age of one year, the protein taken averages seven calories per pound of the baby's weight. This gradually diminishes to four and one-half calories by the time the child is six years of age, and remains about this figure or slightly below, until full growth is reached. The protein foods are: flesh foods, (meat, fish and fowl) eggs, milk, cheese, nuts and legumes. Grains and other vegetables have varying proportions of protein, but not enough for them to be classed as protein foods.

Legumes—beans, peas and lentils—have a comparatively high amount of protein. Baked beans, for instance, have 21 per cent. However, the protein of legumes and grain are not complete, that is they do not contain all of the elements necessary for for body building and body repair—no matter what the advertisements say—so they should not be depended upon for the full supply.

Animal proteins, with the exception of gelatine, are complete, and the protein of nuts is complete. We know that man's nearest animal relative, the ape, depends on them for his protein supply. And those nuts that have been investigated, have proved complete for other animals also.

The animal proteins, with the exception of milk, leave an acid reaction in the body. So do breads and cereals, and it is very harmful for any length of time to have too many foods leaving acid reaction. Therefore more vegetables and fruits which leave alkaline reactions and more of the protein dishes made of nuts or milk should be taken.

Did you ever try a raw vegetable and nut loaf? Do try it. I am sure you will like it. You can make it as follows:

Two cupfuls of finely chopped vegetables. (A mixture of any kind you like.)
One cupful of finely chopped nuts.
Two tablespoonfuls of oil and one of lemon juice, or two full tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing.
Parsely, green peppers, minced onion or a tiny bit of crushed garlic to flavor.
Use any dressing you like best on it.

Keep Cool To Live Long

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topic of Popular Interest.

Among the innumerable theories to which modern investigation of the mystery of life has led, none is more curious than that of the late Jacques Loeb, based upon "the thermic coefficient," which is explained as follows:

At a given temperature chemical reaction takes place with a certain speed; then, for every elevation of ten degrees in the temperature the speed increases a certain number of times, and the increase is called the thermic coefficient of the reaction. In general this coefficient in chemical reactions lies between 2 and 3, while in physical reactions it is less than 2. Now, many vital manifestations have a thermic coefficient of about 3, and this has been used as an argument to prove that the phenomena of life and death are of a chemical nature.

To illustrate what is meant, take these facts of observation: An egg develops about three times as fast at a temperature of 25 deg. Centigrade as at 15 deg. A plant grows about three times as swiftly at 25 deg. as at 15 deg. An ant runs about three times as swiftly at 25 deg. as at 15 deg. In all of these cases the thermic coefficient closely corresponds with its mean value in chemical relations.

Now Loeb pointed out that if the processes which bring about the death of ananimal or plant are of the same nature as those which govern its development—as others had affirmed—then the coefficient of temperature related to the duration of life ought to be the same as that related to the rapidity of its development. But observation showed that there was no such coincidence, but on the contrary an extreme divergence. He found in his experiments with sea urchins that with each single degree of elevatic of temperature the duration of life was cut nearly in half. Thus, at a temperature of 21 degrees the larvae lived twenty-four hours; at 12 deegreees ten hours and a half; at 30 degrees six minutes; at 31 degrees, a minute and a half. This gave as the thermic coefficient related to the duration of life the enormous figure of 1,000, which is 333 times greater than shown in chemical reactions.

So Loeb rejected the doctrine that both the development of a living creature and its death (accidental causes eliminated), are the result of a long series of chemical reactions, all of the same nature. He left the character of the destructive causes leading to old age and death unexplained, but inspired to a flight of what will surely be called scientific imagination if ever the conclusion to which it led is finally confirmed, he suggested that it might be possible to greatly increase the duration of the life of the higher animals by simply inducing a slight lowering of the internal temperature of their bodies.

For some reason the temperature of human blood is always in a state of health, about 98 or 99 degrees Fahrenheit. At that temperature the human machine runs during a maximum time of 100 years. Lower it 1 degree Centigrade and the machine would (perhaps) run during 200 years. No man can foresee all the consequences in human affairs that would result from doubling the duration of life.

But, supposing the effect to be as predicted, how could the lowering of internal temperature be brought about? Would continued residence in a cold climate effect such a result? There is an observation of Loeb's which might be thought to indicate that he had some such idea for he calls attention to the fact that the number of individuals among the animals inhabiting the polar seas is large probably because the length of life there is relatively long.

"Keep cool."—i. e., avoid heating the blood by undue excitement—is an immemorial popular prescription for inducing long life. Perhaps we might now write it, "Keep an eye on your thermic coefficient."

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by Lloyd Shaffer, of Cumberland, Md. He is the exalted ruler of the Elks there. He is the type for it. Plenty of personality and capacity. In that country it costs $2 to get a marriage license and here not long ago the merchants put on a dollar sale. Everything was a dollar. Well, Lloyd is clerk of the court and he advertised that they would sell marriage licenses for $1 instead of $2, and that he would pay in the other dollar himself. Say, half of Maryland got married. He had no idea just a dollar would make that much difference, but it certainly did in Maryland and West Virginia and Pennsylvania. For Maryland is in West Virginia and Pennsylvania at Cumberland. He saved many a girl from going single, Lloyd did. I tell you a dollar makes a lot of difference in the price of a wife. If he would just have thought and made it for nothing, a lot of the ones that are married would get divorced and get new ones, but they can't see the $2 difference in the ones they have and the ones they want. That's joke enough for today when you know that it is on the level. It happened. Remember, there is just a few $1 wives left. Cumberland is on the B and O. In fact it is the B and O.

Briefly Told News From The Wires

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—The European continent will work its way up through the endless difficulties of inherited and secular antagonisms to that atmosphere of peace and prosperity which this North American continent so fully enjoys, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, forecast in an address here Monday before the Twentieth Century club. Sir Esme was the guest in Buffalo of E. H. Butler, publisher of the Buffalo Evening News and vice president of the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal.—(AP)—Four workmen were killed Monday at the Giant Powder Co., works at Stege, north of here, when the contents of a dynamite cartridge machine detonated, setting off 1,500 pounds of dynamite. There were other casualties, officials of the powder company said. The explosion rattled windows in Vallejo and was so loud that it was believed for a while that one of the naval arsenals near there had been blown up.

KETNERSVILLE, Wis.—(AP)—Preparations are being made to complete the investigation into the death of Mrs. John Yohnek, started by state Fire Marshal Stanley Smith, and present the findings of scientists at a coroner's jury. Suspicions held by Mr. Smith that arson might have been committed prompted the inquiry into the death of the 78-year-old woman whose body was found in the ruins of her home in this village.

FEWER FAILURES, AIM OF NEW PLAN

Would Regulate Admission Freshmen In Lowest Fourth At High School.

In a radio talk Monday afternoon, University Examiner A. A. Reed of the University of Nebraska outlined plans which have been recommended by the university senate to reduce the number of failures among students by regulating the registration of those who come from the lowest fourth of their high school graduating classes. Investigations have convinced university authorities that these are the students causing the most difficulty.

The proposed plan will go into effect September 1, 1927, and will require psychological test of all students from the low group to determine their fitness for college education, and to prevent their registration in subjects in which they would be handicapped for lack of ability.

A graduate student who studied the problem in 1925 found that 77 per cent of the freshmen who were sent home during a period of three years were from the lowest fourth of their high school classes, 17 per cent were from the third quarter and only 4 per cent from the second, and but 2 per cent from the highest fourth.

More recent studies of 222 students from 142 Nebraska high schools who entered the university in 1924 confirmed the first investigations, and showed, said Professor Reed, that there is a wide possible application of the use of the academic rank of students in high schools in predicting their college achievements.

While 80 per cent of the highest one-fourth were still in school, only two out of 42 of those from the lowest quarter were able to survive academic rigors for more than the first three semesters, and there were failing in 74 per cent of their work. Twelve were suspended for delinquencies or were permitted to withdraw before formal suspension. Eighteen were in the university one semester or less. Six failed to make enough credit to get on the registrar's records. Of the remaining, twelve were delinquent in 40 per cent of their work, seven were in school two semesters and were delinquent in 34 per cent of their work. Fifteen were in school three semesters and were delinquent in 11 per cent of their work.

The change is expected to furnish a precedent for possible future extension of the psychological tests in directing registration of students into most useful channels.

For the other great class of student failures—those who come to the university and consider the course as a mere sideline, the university has only the remedy—a cut that is severance of connection with the university, says Professor Reed.

Many Birds Are Seen by Members Of Bruner Club

Bird study has been augmented during the last two weeks by the very favorable warm spring weather and the consequent northward migration of many summer visitors and transient birds. Members of the Bruner Bird club have seen a hundred and forty different species this year in the vicinity of Lincoln and every day new ones are added to the present list.

The cemetery acts a shelter for many of these birds. Capitol Beach lake and the ponds at Arbor north of Lincoln are frequented by ducks and shore birds, while the timber along Salt, Oak and Stevens creeks are inhabited by the woodland birds and many of the new arrivals such as the house wren and brown thrasher may be found in gardens about town.

The hermit thrush was heard in full song recently in some yards in south Lincoln where some of them tarried a few days on their trip northward. Some energetic robins have young almost ready to leave the nest and in the cemetery the pine siskins have been seen gathering nest material and building "practice" nests in the pine and spruce trees. The myrtle, black and white and orange-crowned warblers, the yellow-bellied sapsucker, rough-winged swallow and Lincoln sparrow as well as the purple finch have come back also. At Capitol Beach like the ruffle-head, greater scaup and ruddy ducks, the Franklin gull, least and semipalmated sandpipers, the marbled godwit, Wilson snipe, western willet, pied-billed grebe, semi-palmated and piping plovers and western Henslow sparrow have put in their appearance. New arrivals at Arbor are the barred owl, yellow [illegible], Hudsonian godwit, black-bellied plover, Leconte sparrow and green heron. Along Stevens creek during the past week the barn owl, red-bellied woodpecker and arctic towhee have been noted for the first time this year. Other birds recorded from a number of different places in and around Lincoln are the lark, swamp and vesper sparrows, chimney swift, blue-gray gnatcatcher, ferruginous rough-leg hawk, belted kingfisher and red-headed woodpecker.

ENGLISH SUMMONED.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—Federal Judge G. W. English was served with a summons Monday ordering him to appear at the bar of the United States senate next Monday and enter a plea of guilty or not guilty to charges of misdemeanors in office which the house of representatives preferred against him. The summons was served alleging English's chambers in the federal building at East St. Louis by John J. McGrain, deputy sergeant at arms of the senate, who came from Washington for that purpose.

Mysterious Sweetheart

CHAPTER IV.

What Has Gone Before.

Carolita Menendez, a beautiful young Spanish girl brought up in a South American convent, is traveling alone to Los Angeles at the command of her guardian whom she has never seen. During the last lap of her journey between Chicago and Los Angeles she wakes suddenly in the night and sees, parting the curtains of the berth opposite, a white hand wearing a gorgeous and startling ruby. She steps into the aisle to investigate and meets Paul Reynolds, a young New York lawyer whom she first met on the train after leaving New York and who changed his ticket in Chicago so that his berth would be near hers. Reynolds sends her back to bed, but in the morning they learn that a man has been found in one of the berths, apparently murdered. A gold chain broken in half is found about his neck and there is money in his pockets and no means of identification. The conductor questions the occupants of the car and it comes to light that Carolita made the journey from South America on the same steamer with the dead man. She confesses that he frightened her by his annoying advances. Two Salvation army lasses and Reynolds are next questioned and the latter admits a casual acquaintance with a Mr. and Mrs. Brown who left the train late in the evening. Carolita is much distressed by this sudden tragedy and Reynolds, feeling strongly attracted to her, tries to help her. She tells him her guardian promised that friends would meet her in Los Angeles and he asks if she will wear something to identify herself. This question appears to frighten her strangely.

THE RUBY.

"Tell the conductor we'll be right in," Paul replied to the porter who had come to summon them back to the car and to Carolita as the darky retreated he said:

"Won't you please trust me with your secret? Something tells me that you are going to need me to look after you, you are such a little thing. But first there is something I might ask you! What were you doing in the car aisle last night? Had you heard or seen something that frightened you?"

"Oh, yes! And you? Was it all a dream, what you call a nightmare?"

"What did you see? You must tell me." His tone was insistent, eager.

"It was a hand, so small and white. Yet it must have been a dream, for I know not how I saw it. I had been asleep."

"You mean you had seen it before I found you in the aisle?"

"Yes. I was in my berth when I came to myself. I thought I must be dreaming, then to make sure I arose again and looked, and you were there."

"You say it was a woman's hand?"

"Yes. On the opposite berth curtain."

"Yes, but a second only, and it was gone."

"Then what distressed you? You thought it was a ghost because you knew that that berth had been empty?"

"No—it was more——"

"Something in the hand?" He voice was tense.

"Yes," her voice sank to a whisper.

"A queer ring?"

"You—you saw it, too?" Her eyes opened wider.

"Yes," and his eyes pierced hers, "Carolita, you trust me? Was it your hand?"

"My hand! My hand. You mean I saw my own hand? How could I?" Her genuine amazement broke down the nasty question in the young man's mind, and the relief on his face was so evident that she cried out in wild protest: "Oh, you did not think, you could not think I would go to another berth at night?"

"Forgive me," he said very humbly. "I have been very much upset over the whole affair. I was awakened by a feeling that there was somebody near my berth. I put my head out and saw just such a hand, and a ring with the strangest colored stone I have ever seen in my life, a weird, haunting red—a ruby, I suppose."

"How strange," she said musingly, "how strange."

"But now that we have had this understanding we shall know better what to do. Promise me that you will speak of it to no one! Leave everything to me."

"I promise, but please, whose hand could it have been? I must know, I must!"

"You must? What do you mean?"

"Because of the ring."

"The ring? You mean that you have seen it before?"

She hesitated. Then:

"You said that it was unusual—strange—weird—you could not forget."

"Yes, it was also a man's ring, a large size, slipped upon a slender finger! Is that what you saw? What makes it of such vital interest to you?"

"I should—I may not tell. I promised the Sisters."

"My dear," Paul spoke very firmly, "we are in for an investigation which may disclose murder. Don't keep anything from me now! Surely you are not young and innocent that you cannot understand the seriousness of what has occurred. Do you not realize that a man who is known to have travelled upon the same steamer with you from South America—a man of whom you have admitted being afraid—has been found dead in his berth opposite yours, a broken chain about his neck? Something was on the end of the chain. Could it have been the ring we both saw upon a woman's hand? If so, who was that woman? Did she rob him and kill him, or the other way around, and if she killed him how did she do it?"

Carolita considered. "Yes," she replied thoughtfully. "I believe that I fully comprehend the gravity of the situation in which I find myself, and I too must search for a motive of such a crime if crime it has been. I have been thinking much about the woman and her hand. How, since the car was locked, came such a strange woman in, for in this car there was no woman but myself and the Salvationists, for the lady with whom we played cards had left the train, had she not?"

"Not until early this morning."

"Oh. And at what time did we meet in the aisle, do you know?"

"Yes. I looked at my watch immediately afterwards. It was one-twenty. Do you recall that the woman you speak of wore white gloves while we played cards?"

"Yes. She wore them at all times. I thought it so strange."

"Did you see if there were rings on her fingers?"

"I did not notice."

"But don't you see, Carolita, you must understand that this woman and yourself and the Salvationists are the only ones who could have been in this car?"

"Yes, but this, I cannot change that."

"Carolita, can't you trust me a little further? Tell me why the sight of that ruby distressed you. What connection has it with your life? Your story is so fragmentary that it places you in an unpleasant light. This is the Twentieth century, you know. Girls do not wander about the world in search of unknown relatives. I can't believe that you left that convent without some guarantee that the people you are going to have some authority to look after you. I can believe that the Sisters in your convent did not know your story?"

"Indeed, it is truth! The Old Mother Superior knew, ah yes, but should would not say, but always promised that I should know when the proper moment should arrive. Then she had what you call a seizure."

"Do you mean a stroke?"

"Perhaps. She lay for many weeks without speaking and died so. It must have been the will of God."

"Carolita," his manner was becoming more and more insistent, "there is something you do know, however, something which you will not tell. Don't you see that this whole mystery might be solved by such a small thing as that? We saw a hand with a ring. You know something about that ring—only explain that one little thing, my dear girl, and everything will be all right."

"I am sorry," she replied sadly, her big eyes fixed upon his. "You have been good to me and I would do much for you. I would also do much to help myself. It is true that the ring means much, but besides my promise to keep secret what I have been told, I have also been warned, and I am full of fear!"

"Carolita!" It was no wonder that the sight of a young girl in distress, such a lovely young girl at that, should make a young man's heart beat more quickly. "Haven't our last days together meant anything to you? Wasn't the incident of last night unusual enough to form a tie between us? Aren't we both in a most unhappy position? Oh, I realize that I'm a perfect stranger to you, that you know nothing in the world about me! I understand that the nuns have warned you against making acquaintances or trusting anybody, but can't you see that I'm sincere and honorable about wanting to make things right for you? Don't you believe that I'm a lawyer in good standing in my own city, a man you might safely consult in a business way? Tell me, why you doubt my good intentions? Don't you believe in me?"

"Yes, yes!" and the lovely color which had fascinated him from the first hour of their meeting came flooding back into her cheeks. "I do believe in you! I do thank you! I am certain that all is you have told me, but I too must be honorable. I have made a sacred promise. I must keep it, though I suffer!"

The disappointment in the young man's face was acute.

"At least," he said, "you cannot prevent my doing everything in my power to serve you. Shall we return to our car? The conductor is waiting."

He did not see the tears in those dark eyes as they made their way back to their own Pullman, and by the time they had reached their destination Carolita was composed again. It was a relief to find the car made up for the day, lower one vacant, the Salvationists absorbed in their morning reading, the conductor and another man in Carolita's section.

"Mr. Reynolds," the conductor asked, "were you in the club car at any time last evening?"

"Yes."

"What time did your card game begin?"

"About half an hour after we left * * *," Paul replied. "Miss Menendez and I were sitting together when the couple from the drawing room came in, and after a short chat we accepted their invitations to join them at cards."

"You say you sat in a section together first? Which one?"

Paul looked at Carolita questioningly.

"Wasn't it across from mine—lower three?"

"I think so," she replied quietly. "We had been watching the sunset from that side."

"Did this couple come from their drawing room?"

"I don't know. What are you driving at?"

"This is Mr. Gaines, Mr. Reynolds. He has identified the body as that of a man he saw yesterday throughout the day in the chair car, and also noticed him in the early evening in the club car in company with a man and a woman whose descriptions answer that of the Mr. and Mrs. Brown. He speaks especially of the fact that woman wore white gloves. You had noticed that?"

"Yes. She played cards with them on. Didn't you say you had sent a wire after them?"

"Yes. I will find a reply at the next stop."

"Mr. Gaines," Paul asked, "were these people drinking together?"

"I noticed gingerale bottles, nothing more."

"I suppose," Paul went on to the train conductor, "that you have questioned everyone in the train?"

"Yes. The dead man has travelled through in the chair car. Mr. Gaines is the only one who saw him in conversation with other passengers. We are pulling into the station now," he concluded. "Please do not leave this car," he raised his voice to include the Salvation Army Lasses and hurried out.

Five minutes later the train was moving west again and the conductor re-entered, a telegraphic message in his hand.

"Mr. Reynolds," he asked quickly, "did I understand that you knew the drawing room passengers as Mr. and Mrs. Brown?"

Reynolds looked him straight in the face.

"You understood that they so introduced themselves to Miss Menendez."

"I recall your speaking of them as 'ships that pass in the night.' Did you mean that they were strangers to you?"

"I was not committing myself."

"Then it will be best to do so now. You had known these people before?"

"The man—yes. I saw the woman for the first time."

"How long since you had seen this man?"

"Ten years."

"Your answers place you in an embarrassing position, Reynolds," the conductor spoke sternly. "The fact you are travelling with a ticket bearing the name of Mark Day is also against you."

"What names appeared on the tickets of the couple in the drawing room?" Reynolds asked quickly.

"Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown, but at the junction the man wired the firm of Carr and Reynolds, New York, and signed himself Walter Reynolds. How do you account for that?"

Winter Wheat Is Damaged By High Winds Last Week

Between 5 and 10 per cent of the winter wheat acreage in east central Nebraska was damaged by the high winds of last week, A. E. Anderson, state and federal crop statistician, reported today. The condition of the remainder of the acreage in the state is excellent, the report said, although more moisture is needed.

"The condition of winter wheat in east central Nebraska, however, is above normal for this season of the year," the report said. "The condition in Saunders, Butler, Polk and Hamilton counties is excellent although some damage resulted from recent wind storms. York, Seward and Lancaster counties suffered the greatest amount of damage from winds. Some of the fields are badly wind blown and unless rain is received within the next few days may be abandoned. A few fields have already been disced up. Wind damage resulted principally on the higher and more rolling fields and exposed areas while low lying and level fields came through apparently unharmed."

There seems to be sufficient subsoil moisture, the report said, but the surface soil is hard and needs rain.

Briefly Told News From The Wires

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—Clark M. Perry, former federal prohibition director for Wisconsin, late Monday was indicted and arrested on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national dry laws. The indictment growing out of a fake [illegible] whisky robbery at Plymouth, Wis., in May, 1924, names Perry, the late Jack Lawrence, former prohibition enforcement chief; Jack Anton, the president of the extinct Plymouth Wholesale Drug Company, and Casper Wellington, Fond Du Lac county roadhouse keeper, as the alleged conspirators.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Passersby responding to stifled cries in the Congress jewelry store on South State street, found S. W. Lew lying behind a counter, gagged. He told them two young men held him up and escaped with a tray of diamonds and watches.

To People Particular of the Coffee They Drink

This is to that careful group who imagine that coffee must cost 60c to 70c per pound to be worthy of their indulgence.

Most everyday the story comes to us of how someone of this group has turned to Milady. How they tried this much talked of coffee either through curiosity or at the solicitation of some friend. How they now declare that this coffee is better than that for which they were paying 25% more.

So to the rest of this group we want to say that finer coffee than Milady is not obtainable. Its low price is due to being Lincoln packed and also without expensive cans or fancy trimming.

Dempsey's Challenger Tires of Jack's Evasion

Negro Battler In Mood To Quit the Fight Game

Harry Wills Weary of Knocking at Champion Jack's Door; Persistent Challenger of Dempsey Sour On Apparent Plan of Fight Promoters to Deny Him Chance at Heavyweight Crown.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(I. N. S.)—"I wouldn't blame Harry in the least if he retired from the ring under those circumstances," was the comment of his manager, Paddy Mullins, this morning on the published statement of Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger, that he would retire from the ring unless Jack Dempsey signed to met him within two months.

Wills was quoted as saying he was disgusted with Dempsey's promises and that he believed there was no doubt that Gene Tunney would get the first crack at th champion's title.

Nothing But Run-Around.

"If we don't get the Dempsey fight this year, it wouldn't surprise me at all if Wills retired," Mullins said. "I'd do the same thing if I was in his place. They have given us the run-around for almost ten years and if we get it again now, the thing will be hopeless.

"Wills and I have never talked about him retiring. He made this threat without consulting me, but I agree with him. If a man is the best in his class and can't get the champion to meet him, what else is there to do."

Tex Returns to Gotham.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(I. N. S.) —Tex Rickard was due to arrive in town this morning and may go before the state athletic commission to explain the circumstances under which he signed Jack Dempsey to a blank contract to defend his heavyweight title in September. This action violated a commission edict against local promoters doing business with Dempsey.

GAME OF GRID HAS FRIENDS IN COURT

Not All College Professors Willing to Hang Official Ban On Football.

Princeton Dean Would Have Game Played As All-Year Sport.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Various college officials, discussing the report of the American Association of University Professors, which concludes that football is a menace to morals and education, feel that the gridiron game is beneficial. The opinion of Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton, which has received the approval of President Hibben, is that "football properly coached and conducted is a healthy and wholesome sport for players and spectators."

Favors All-Year Football.

The dean wishes it could be played the year round.

The professors' findings blamed football for increased drinking, gambling and dishonesty, but Dean Gauss asserted that in a year as dean at Princeton no football players had come before him for discipline.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia found many of the report's assertions true for some institutions of the country and agreed that conditions varied.

Conditions Clean In West.

Major J. L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, speaking in Chicago, said that conditions in the conference were now on a higher plane and that it was unfair to judge intercollegiate football by conditions of many years ago. He agreed that the evils noted might be found somewhere in the country.

The Carnegie foundation has decided on two investigations having to do with collegiate athletics, one to seek the relation between athletics and curricula and the other to learn the connection between athletics and longevity. In the second inquiry, 5,000 men, many of them former stars, are to be interviewed.

Touching the Bases.

The Phillies regained third place in the National league by beating the Giants in the eleventh inning, 6 to 5. The venerable Cy Williams took the lead in the race for the league's home run honors by cracking out his third homer of the season and Wilson also hit for the circuit.

Cincinnati nosed out the Cardinals in the tenth, 3 to 2, and went into a tie with the Giants for first place. Walker's fourth hit of the afternoon decided the issue.

The Pirates emerged from the cellar by trimming the Cubs, 8 to 6. Red Oldham made the Cubs behave after Meadows was driven off the mound.

Cleveland jumped back into a tie with the Yankees for first place in the American league by massaging three St. Louis pitchers and burying the Browns under a 12 to 1 score.

The hitting of Goslin and Bluege and the pitching of Ruether were too much for the Red Sox, who lost to the Senators, 6 to 2. It was Reuther's third straight win.

Still sliding merrily down the greased chute for their fifth straight defeat, the Tigers lost to the White Sox, 5 to 1. Harris, Chicago's rookie outfielder, drove in three runs.

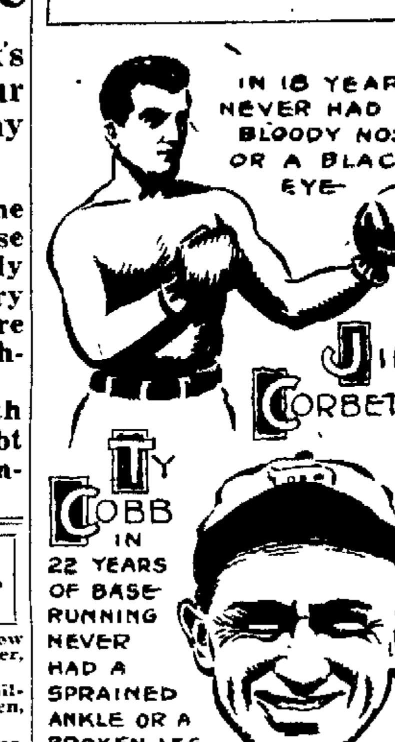
Bobbie Lamotte, playing for the Browns in place of Gerber, had a bad day in the field with three bobbles, but made up for it in his stick work, by smashing Joe Shaute of the Indians for three of the six hits made by Sisler's crew. Bobbie's hits included a double and a triple.

Ossie Bluege and "Goose" Goslin brought their heavy artillery into action against the Red Sox. Bluege amassed two doubles and a single in three trips at bat, while the "Goose" collected four singles in five trips to the plate.

The St. Louis Browns have the edge on the other major league clubs for double killings to date. They have executed 20 double plays, the Cardinals, also of St. Louis, being the runners up with 18.

There are only two regulars in the National league hitting over .400. They are Hornsby, St. Louis .422, and Leach, Philadelphia, .404. There are several luster sluggers in the American league, topped by Carlyle of Boston, who is traveling at a .467 clip, with Gehrig of the Yankees trailing with .436.

Nature Gives Much To Some Athletes



BY AL DEMAREE.

Jim Corbett, Ty Cobb, Cy Young, Everett Scott and numerous other star performers in athletics have proved that a man can give 100 per cent to his job and still last over an indefinite route.

In a sense, these men were and are supermen who were not affected by the ordinary injuries of keen athletic competition and were so gifted athletically that the work did not burn them up and wear them out.

Cy Young, the greatest pitcher of all time, pitched twenty-two years in the big league without having a sore arm.

Everett Scott, famous shortstop, played hundreds of contests over a period of years without missing a game.

Bob Fitzsimmons fought in the roped arena for twenty-nine years, about the age when the modern boxer is looked upon as starting to slip.

"CLEAN BILL" TO NORWAY ATHLETE

Charley Hoff, World Champion Vaulter, Not Guilty Of Feathering Nest.

Drake and Kansas U. Refute Stories That Foreigner Is Working Graft.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Charley Hoff, world champion pole vaulter from Norway, appears to have been cleared before an inquiry has started about his expense accounts.

The amateur athletic union, acting upon clippings from Chicago newspapers, has started an investigation of rumors that over charges on Hoff's account were made for his appearance at the Kansas and Drake university relay carnivals the last two weeks.

The case recalls the visit a year ago of the great Finnish middle distance runner, Paavo Nurmi. He failed to appear for a Kansas City event, but this was soon explained Then came the questioning of his expense accounts at Des Moines, but finally he was cleared.

Clear Bill From Allen.

Official views from both the University of Kansas and Drake university defended Hoff. Dr. Forest C. Allen, director of athletics at Kansas, is sure that amateur rules have not been violated. Hoff received only the $8.50 a day allowed by A. A. U. for expenses, Dr. Allen said. The University paid the expenses of Mrs. Hoff and of Mr. and Mrs. George Baan. Baan is Hoff's brother-in-law.

It develops that Baan, acting as manager, refused to permit Hoff to vault until all motion picture men had left the field at the Kansas meet and this led to the report that the pole vaulter had signed contracts to appear on the screen in a story to be taken from a book he is writing. Advices from Des Moines are that the picture men had cameras there and obtained the pictures.

Confirmed by Drake Manager.

Edward C. Lytton, business manager at Drake, calls intimations that Hoff took more than his stipulated share from meet at Des Moines absurd. A check for $200, he said, had been forwarded to Secretary Frederick W. Rubien of the A. A. U. Mr. Rubien said:

"I feel sure there can be no truth in the charges."

"We are conducting the financial arrangements of Hoff's tour in much the manner as we did on Nurmi's visit. All the clubs and colleges for which he competes pay a pro rata share of the total expenses.

Money Goes To Rubien.

"The negotiations are conducted through us and the money is sent to me. Hoff does not receive a penny until his expense money is turned over to him by the A. A. U."

The reports that caused the inquiry were that Hoff received $600 for the Kansas meet and $800 for the Drake relays.

Track Interest Keen in College Cinder Circles

Track interest is keen in Nebraska college cinder circles this season. Preliminary dual meets indicate that a number of new records will be established when the Nebraska schools meet at the University of Nebraska stadium, May 15.

Doane track fans that watched the Hastings-Doane dual on the Adams county track last Saturday were inclined to be miffed at the work of the Hastings judges in the 12-yard high hurdles. Tiger followers maintained that the judges, in their excitement at watching Isaman and Phil Taylor battle for third position, overlooked Ablott on the outside lane.

Ablott In Second Place.

Ablott, they maintain, finished a close second to McKenzie, the winner, and was far ahead of Isaman and Taylor. Selection of Ablott as second would have given Doane a 69½ to 66½ victory. The Hastings report showed the Bronchos in front 68½ to 67½.

The Tiger-Broncho argument will be renewed at the state meet and should add considerable enthusiasm to the college carnival.

Kearney Normal squeezed out a 69 to 67 victory over Cotner college in a dual meet at Kearney Saturday. The results:

100-yard dash—Won by Marts (C); second, Waldman (K); third, Lassley (C).

Says Locke Sure to Win Dash Title

BY WARREN BROWN.

(In Chicago Herald-Examiner.)

Locke's 9.5 seconds for 100 yards at the Drake relays, fastest time ever registered for the event, hardly will stand, because of the hurricane at his back. Still it would seem that whatever advantage the wind gave him, the muddy condition of the track took away.

The day previous, with no wind, and wtih the track in even worse shape, Locke ran 100 yards in ten flat, and was turning around, every now and then, and stalling the last fifteen yards.

A week before that, under ideal conditions, he ran 100 yards in world's record time of 9 6-10 seconds.

It has been some years since the title of "Fastest Human" came to Charley Paddock of southern California At the risk of being shot at a California sunrise, I submit that Locke is keyed to take that title away before many more track meets have been run into and over the ground.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

RESIN NOT USED IN GEAR LEAGUE

No Rule to Contrary, But Head of Loop Advises Against It.

TOPEKA, Kas., April 27.—The resin bag may be all right for veterans in the big leagues, but minor league hurlers should have nothing to do with it, according to Dale Gear, president of the Western and Southwestern leagues.

This statement was made by a man who played a prominent part in the resin bag getting recognition in the baseball rules. Gear represented the minor leagues at the meeting of the national rules committee when the matter was brought up. Gear and Judge Kenesaw M. Landis cast the deciding votes in favor of the rule.

Not Used In Western.

It is interesting to note that the resin bag is not being used in either of the leagues of which Gear is president. It has not even been considered among the leagues' problems. It was not even brought up at the recent meeting of the Southwestern league, a class D circuit, Gear himself brought it up at a Western league meeting. He simply asked the club owners to request their pitchers not to use resin and the club owners promised to co-operate with him to keep resin out of the league. The league did not take any official action against the rule, but Gear has received no reports of resin being used.

No Doctoring of Ball.

As Gear terms it, the resin rule is only something for the two major leagues to "fight about" There is nothing to the rule as far as the effect upon the game is concerned, he said. It simply legalized something which has been in existence on major league benches for years and this was his motive in voting for it. It is impossible for a pitcher to "cheat" or develop a freak delivery by using it. Its only advantage is to give him a better grip on the ball. Gear declared he would not have voted for the rule if the use of resin would have given a pitcher an opportunity to "doctor" the ball.

Bad Business In Minors.

Although the rule gives minor league hurlers in leagues which have taken no action on the rule, privilege of using resin if they desire, Gear says a minor league pitcher has no business experimenting with it. He should rely upon his own ability and should forget about resin or any other substance.

A clash between the American league bitterly opposed it. Gear and Judge Landis broke the deadlock by voting for the rule

Philly Pitcher Launches Drive To Bump Giants

CINCINNATI, April 27.—(AP)—Errors by St. Louis in the ninth and tenth innings were partly responsible for Cincinnati overcoming the visitors' two-run lead and turning the game into a victory by a 3 to 2 score. FAME OF LOCKE SPREADING FAST

Wire Offers Are Rolling In Seeking Presence Of Nebraska Star.

Cornhusker Dazzler Booked To Run Next Saturday On Lincoln Track.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

The fame of Roland Locke, University of Nebraska track comet, having been heralded for and wide following the Cornhusker's 9.6 at the Kansas relays and 9.5 at the Drake carnival invitations for exhibition performance are rolling into the University of Nebraska athletic office.

Les Edmonds, director of athletics at Washington university, hopped on the wires Monday to offer for the fleet Nebraskan an invitation to meet Loren Murchison, eastern flash, in a special 300-yard race at St. Louis, May 15.

Invitation from Coast.

The Los Angeles Athletic club was in with an invitation for a Paddock-Locke sprint event on the western rim May 8.

Both invitations were turned down by Locke, the Cornhusker track captain having plenty of work on his hands in completing his junior year of law and rounding out the Cornhusker collegiate cinder schedule, which includes three dual meets, the Missouri Valley conference meet and a whirl at the national intercollegiate in Chicago during June.

Conform to A. A. U. Rules.

Nebraska athletic authorities were arranging Tuesday to prepare to equip all the remaining meets on the Nebraska calendar with timers and starters recognized by the national A. A. U., so that all records made by Locke under good weather conditions will be read into the record books.

The Missouri-Nebraska dual Saturday this week will be the first chance Nebraska fans will have to see Locke and the Cornhusker tracksters in action.

The dual with the Missouri Valley champions looks like one of the great events of the track season, both teams having well balanced dual meet squads.

Three to Challenge Locke.

Farley, Smith and Grantello are the dash men that will challenge the fleet Locke. Grantello, in addition, holds the indoor championship of the Valley in the quarter-mile event.

Middle distance and distance men on the Missouri list are Moulder in the half-mile, Matthews in the mile and Steele in the two-mile. Fitch is the hurler that will challenge Ed Weir

Missouri looks particularly strong in the field events with Doss Richerson and McNanally in the shot and discus, Potts in the high jump and Lancaster in the broad jump and pole vault.

Links and Indians Clash Today in Inaugural Game

TUESDAY GAMES.
Oklahoma City at Lincoln.
St. Joseph at Denver.
Tulsa at Des Moines.
Wichita at Omaha.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Western league baseball, after two weeks of pastiming in the southern half of the circuit, was making its bow Tuesday in the four northern cities. Lincoln's opening day game at Landis Field, in which Dutch Zwilling's Links were mixing with the Oklahoma City Indians, was not favored by the weather breaks which had been predicted, but fandom was taking keen interest in the local inaugural and the Lincoln management was looking forward to a stand-packing turnout.

League President Dale D. Gear of Topeka arrived in Lincoln Tuesday morning to be a guest of honor at the chamber of commerce noon luncheon and to witness the proceedings at the ball yard. The new prexy is a Topeka business man, head of the Kiwanis club and a man of high standing in his home community. His election to the presidency of the Western league already has impressed every club owner as a wise move.

Parade to Ball Yard.

The program for opening day included a reception to the two clubs at the chamber of commerce luncheon, followed by an automobile parade to Landis Field. Governor Adam McMullen was scheduled to toss the first ball from a grandstand box onto the field of play. Guy Cooper, veteran right-hander, was scheduled to go to the mound for the Links, with Clay Carson, southpaw with the Lincoln club last year, serving his forkside benders for the visiting Indians from Oklahoma City.

Manager Dutch Zwilling and his Links enjoyed a vacation Monday, arriving at noon from Wichita, where the club rounded out its first southern tour with two victories in three games. The Lincoln manager refused to offer any alibis or excuses for the defeats sustained on the southern trip.

Dutch Still Fighting.

"We had few of the breaks, but played some poor baseball," Dutch said. "I knew perfectly well that the Links were not in physical condition when the season started, and the weather subsequently was not calculated to bring about a betterment. The pitchers, with one of two exceptions, are not in trim and until we can get two or three weeks of mild weather, I can't hope for material improvement. Just the same the Links ought to get to going soon and my personal belief it that is will take a right good ball club to beat us in our home grounds."

Opening today with Oklahoma City, the Links will be at home for a run of 21 days, playing every team in the league with the exception of Omaha during the first home stand. The Links will go to Des Moines for a three-day series beginning May 18 and return to Lincoln May 22 to clash with Omaha. The only open date of the home series is Monday, May 3.

Simon Wires Good Luck.

Ben Simon, Lincoln businessman, in New York on a buying trip, was thoughtful enough of the Links to wire the following message today to the local management:

"Sorry I can't be with you to see the Links win the opening game. Hope you have the biggest crowd possible and I know you will. Good luck and success.

"BEN SIMON."

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with the nauseating fishy taste because the McCoy Laboratories of New York are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Harley Drug Co. and every druggist sells them—60 tablets—60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—Feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine and avoid imitations.—Advertisement.

FEELING LOTS BETTER NOW

Writes Ethel May Snider Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Hartford City, Ind.—Doing housework and taking care of a sick woman proved to be too much for Ethel May Snider, R. R. 1, of Hartford City, until she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Overwork had so undermined her health that she had to give up all outside work and when she saw this medicine advertised in the "Star" and other papers, she went to a druggist and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it regularly, was greatly benefited and now feels very much better.

Ethel May Snider's experience is similar to that of thousands of other women in all walks of life, who have sent testimonials to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass.

From Maine to California, from Wisconsin to Texas, and from Nebraska to Florida, letters are received every day from grateful women who say the Vegetable Compound has helped to restore their health.

Market Quotations

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., April 27.

With frost predicted for Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri and with no general moisture yet for the northwest, wheat prices today averaged higher. The fact that receipts were smaller and that the world's available supply showed a falling off of 2,015,000 bushels helped to lift values, estimates were unfinished as to export business, but some Winnipeg messages said the volume of sales was as high as 1,000,000 bushels.

WHEAT—Wheat jumped up quickly today after an early decline. Persistent adverse weather conditions, including a forecast of freezing temperatures, acted as more than a counter-balance for initial declines that were due to unexpected weakness of quotations at Liverpool. Predictions of only meager shipments from Argentina for the remainder of the season tended somewhat to promote a sharp rally. The opening, ¼ to 1¼c lower, May (new), $1.62@1.62¾ and July $1.42¼@1.42¾, was followed by material gains with May touching $1.65¾ and July $1.45.

Wheat closed irregular at ¾c net decline to one cent advance.

CORN—Corn and oats were swayed by the fluctuations of wheat. After opening ⅝c off to ⅝c up, July 77½@77¾c, corn sagged all around but then recovered, going in some cases above yesterday's finish.

CORN—¼ to ⅝c up and oats at ⅛ to ⅞c gain.

OATS—Oats started at ⅛c decline to a shade advance, July 41⅞@41¾c. Later, all months showed losses which soon were replaced by fractional gains.

PROVISIONS—In line with hog values the provision market was weak.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKETS.

Frequent shifting of speculative activity from the buying to the selling side brought about considerable irregularity in today's stock market which was largely a professional affair. Large operators appeared to be waiting the exact figures on U. S. Steel earnings to be made public after the market closed and further light on the business situation in general before extending their commitments, public participation also being at low ebb. Prices sold off at the opening when selling pressure was renewed against some of the speculative industrials, but they rallied briskly later when a good demand developed for some of the railroad shares, buying of which undoubtedly was influenced by publication of favorable first quarter earnings statements. Missouri Pacific showed surplus of $1,792,059 for the first three months, equivalent to 1.97 a share of the common, as against 27 a share in the same period last year, while the Baltimore & Ohio showed net operating income of $8,176,916, an increase of $1,636,441 over the first quarter of 1925. Despite reports of a declining price tendencies declining stocks and increasing consumption, oils were relatively sluggish although some activity took place in Skelly on merger rumors. Total sales in the first three hours were just above 685,000 shares.

Reactionary tendencies predominated at the opening of today's stock market, motors were again under selling pressure, Hudson opening a point lower and most of the others yielding fractionally on initial sales. Standard industrials also showed traces of heaviness. United States steel common opening half a point lower at 121, despite expectations of a splendid quarterly report after the close of the market today.

The closing was steady. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Girl Committed To Institution Is Paroled To Mother

Catherine Symes, who has been an inmate of the Lancaster county jail for several months, was Tuesday morning ordered by County Judge Reid committed to the institution for feeble minded, but was by the board of control paroled to her mother, a resident of Wisconsin, who will take the girl, aged twenty years, to her home.

Miss Symes was originally arrested on a forgery charge, being at that time about to become a mother. The child was later born at a local hospital and was turned over to the state. Since then the girl has been in the county jail, but will now be taken back to the home of her mother.

$7,000 Loss To State Fund On Cotesfield Bank

A small loss estimated at $7,000 will fall upon the guaranty fund of Nebraska from the closing of the Farmers' State bank at Cotesfield, which has been placed in the hands of I. A. Kirk of Gibbon, member of the guaranty fund commission, as receiver. The bank was taken over by the commission June 15 of last year and has been operated under its supervision from then to the present time.

It had loans of $55,000 when the commission took charge. These have been reduced by collection and compromise to $24,000. Deposits of $60,000 in June ran down to $24,000 before the bank was closed, and of the latter amount $17,000 was in time deposits. Bills payable amount to $3,500, while the cash on hand is $300. Total liabilities, other than capital stock, aggregate $41,000. The remaining assets include real estate listed at $17,000, and paper of doubtful value in the face amount of $21,000.

The bank had $15,000 capital stock. Some of the Stockholders have already paid in $6,500 to meet their double liability.

Ask Action Early Next Week.

The agriculture committee decided to request house leaders to bring up the bills the first of next week. The rules committee has indicated that it will give farm legislation the right of way.

The committee voted to report the three bills after defeating, 15 to 5, a request by Chairman Haugen to have them voted on in the committee separately.

Chairman Haugen, in his report discussing the farmer's bills, said:

"The best judgment is that the remedy will be found in carrying products over from fat years to the lean years and equating a price based on supply and demand over a period of years rather than for one year and in managing the surplus so as to make the tariff on agricultural products effective.

"In their eagerness for relief the American farmers have asked the government to establish by law the machinery by which they may contribute to this fund through a small fee collected on their crops. But the committee felt it unwise to provide for the immediate imposition of the fee without allowing the proposed federal farm board time in which to test out its operations and to arrange the mechanism. For these reasons, provision has been made that collection of the equalization fee shall be deferred for two years and the operation of the board during that time financed from funds drawn from the revolving fund provided by the government."

The report adds that "the principle is well established that the government shall assume the risk of pioneering the experimenting in many fields where the public interest is involved."

MORE DEBT PAYING PLANS ARE APPROVED

Missouri, and Howell, republican, Nebraska, with others, opposed the Belgian agreement as "saddling" heavy burdens on American taxpayers through the liberality of its treatment of interest on the $417,780,000 obligation, it was ratified in less time than had been thought likely by a vote of 55 to 20, and the Latvian settlement immediately was given the right of way.

Need Only Signature.

Senate action on the Belgian debt, as was the case with the Italian agreement, advanced them to the point where only the president's signature was necessary to put them into effect. His approval was a foregone conclusion and the Brussels and Rome governments already have ratified the agreements. The house had acted on all of them before they were sent to the senate.

Negotiations for settlement of the $4,000,000,000 French debt apparently hinged chiefly on the outcome of Ambassador Berenger's request to his government for further instructions. The situation was given consideration yesterday by Premier Briand and his advisers with indications that little or no delay was to be expected.

France's plan to start payments at $25,000,000 a year appeared to be the main stumbling block encountered by the American debt commission in considering the ambassador's proposal. The Caillaux mission last summer offered to begin with annual installments at $40,000,000 and the ambassador was asked to revise the new program along lines more acceptable to the Americans, who, meanwhile, turned their attention to renewed negotiations with the Jugo-Slavian commission.

Envoy Asks Instructions.

Ambassador Berenger immediately communicated with his government and the likelihood of fresh instructions was disclosed in Paris last night after a conference between Premier Briand and the finance committee of the chamber of deputies. With the idea of linking French payments and German reparations virtually eliminated by the unwillingness of the American commission to accept such a plan, the exchange problem has come to the front to concern the deputies. They were informed by the premier that means were being sought to maintain payments to be made to Great Britain and the United States in harmony with France's capacity to pay.

Fire Prevention Program Under Way

Sixty expert fire hazard inspectors started work in Lincoln Tuesday morning under the tutelage of twelve city firemen. They were divided into groups and are inspecting the business district, public buildings, churches and schools as a part of national fire prevention week. The inspection is being conducted here under the direction of the Nebraska Fire Prevention association. Headquarters have been opened at the chamber of commerce.

The inspections will be continued through the remainder of the week and as part of the program speakers will be at the noon luncheons each day of the several civic clubs. Richard E. Vernor of Chicago, was the speaker today at the luncheon of the Rotary club in the Venetian room of the Lincoln hotel.

Inspections will be made in the residential sections by the Boy Scouts and school children.

Road Companions Held After Theft Of Car Reported

When a man giving the name of Jack McLarin, 23, made off with a car supposed to belong to his former road-companion, Audley Fenstermacher, Monday evening, he precipitated them both into trouble with the Lincoln police department.

Fenstermacher had hauled McLarin all the way from Enid, Oklahoma, he said. Near midnight Monday he went into a restaurant at Eleventh and N streets, leaving McLarin alone in the car. When he returned the car was gone, and McLarin was, too.

The police notified surrounding towns and less than two hours later the marshal at Ashland arrested McLarin driving the missing car.

On questioning after his return to Lincoln, McLarin declared that Fenstermacher had stolen the license plates which were on the car. Clyde Todd, living at Twenty-second and N streets, appeared and claimed the plate. He said it had been taken from his car in the garage at his home.

Fenstermacher did not have a bill of sale for the car he was driving. He admitted fashioning some license plates out of paper and cigar-box wood after he lost his Oklahoma plate. He is held for investigation. McLarin is in a cell.

PERRY CALLS REFUSAL U. S. CLAIM ILLEGAL

Roa that Francisco Villa was a bandit on January 10, 1916, the date of the Massacre at Santa Ysabel.

Dr. Octavio declared that until January 1, 1916, Villa was a revolutionist and the Mexican government would have been responsible if he had killed the Americans before that date, but after January 1 Villa became a bandit and the government was not responsible.

Judge Perry read documents purporting to prove that the government continued after January 1 to recognize Villa as a revolutionist. Furthermore he insisted that the government was responsible whether Villa was a bandit or not. It had, he asserted, specifically promised safe conduct to the Americans.

In addition, the Mexican-United States convention creating the claim commission definitely fixed the date of the revolutionary period, which he charges the commission now was attempting to change.

The Octavio-Roa decision, as given out by the Mexican foreign office last night, points out that the United States recognized Villa as a bandit. It further denies there was proof that Villa had been present at or was responsible for the Santa Ysabel massacre for which possibly other bandits were responsible. It denies that the passports given to the Americans constituted guarantees of protection by the Mexican government because they were issued by the border immigration officials.

Mexico has recognized her moral obligations to pay the revolutionary damages, it says, but in this case she is under no obligation because it is not proven that the massacre was not perpetrated by unlawful elements beyond the control of the Mexican government and because responsibility for unlawful elements is specifically exempted in the claim convention.

SELECT MEN TO TRY DAVIS

thorities there decided were suspicious circumstances, resulted in charges of murder against him and of accessory to murder against his present wife. Davis' own children, including a son, Glenn, of Emerson, Iowa, accuse him.

E. J. Lambe of Beaver City, another of the defense counsel, indicated today that he would call about 25 witnesses, while the state has more than 80 on its list. It is considered likely, however, that about half of the state's witnesses will not be called.

"I'm confident of my acquittal," Davis told newspaper men. "The evidence will show the absurdity of the state's charges."

Mrs. Ressler-Davis, who is charged with being an accessory to the crime, is held at Grand Island. It is not likely that she will be permitted to attend the trial, and she will not be called to testify by either the state or the defense.

Bernard McNeny questioned the prospective jurors closely with regard to necessity of showing more than motive for the crime.

"Should the state show a motive in the case," he said, "yet present evidence that would leave a reasonable doubt in your mind as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, would you give the defendant benefit of that doubt?"

Davis sat through Monday's proceedings without the slightest show of emotion. He chatted freely, however, with Deputy Sheriff Karthouser, in whose custody he is held, as they walked out of the court house at adjournment.

He had hoped to see his wife, Mrs. Kate Resler Davis, at the trial.

The court room in the federal building which is used by the state pending completion of the Red Willow county's new $200,000 county building was crowded during the afternoon session.

It was learned last night defense counsel has made preparations to attack one of the main pieces of evidence to be introduced by the state. This consists of letters alleged to have been written by Davis to Mrs. Resler before the death of Davis' first wife. The genuineness of the letters, it was said, will be questioned closely. They are said to have been found behind a dresser drawer in the bed room of Mrs. Resler-Davis after officers had arrested her and her husband. As to when they were written, will depend on the validity of the state's claim of when and where they were found, defense counsel indicated.

About People

Jack Matthews left Tuesday noon for Little Rock, Ark., where he will attend a meeting Wednesday of a district morticians association, embracing seven states. He will be the principal speaker as president of the national association.

CONFLICT SEEN WITH COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

A Vital Thing.

Dear Minerva: Hundreds have expressed their appreciation of your columns and I do the same, and you are not printing filth as one implied you were, and sex problems and sex education is the most vital thing for this life while we are still in the flesh.

We came into this world through sex and it is the most sacred thing pertaining to this life and should be treated accordingly.

This is not a sex lecture but only in answer to those who desecrate sex or mis-apply it.

That woman who signed herself "Virtuous Wife," why didn't she sign herself "Virtuous Mother?"

She meant right, no doubt, as you told her, but if she had a baby of her own flesh and blood and was a true loving mother of children, it would not worry her much as to the legitimacy of them, knowing it was really her own.

Legitimacy is of secondary importance to those who love children. Why blame the little child for something it cannot help? Why put a stigma on a sweet little baby that God made just the same as any other baby because it happened to be born out of wedlock.

Sarah Bernhardt, the greatest of actresses, was a so-called illegitimate child. Charles Darwin's parents were first cousins.

When Christ blessed little children He didn't question their legitimacy. Jesus said, in substance, it is better that a millstone be tied around one's neck and he be thrown into the bottom of the sea than that such a person should offend these little ones.

Now, Mrs. "Virtuous Wife," I admire you for being virtuous, but I don't think you very virtuous if you have refused to have children. Don't you know that the prime object of sex is to bear children?

That the Creator would not have created sex except wholly for the purpose of creating children. That is the reason you are a she and I am a he. I have two children that I love dearly; what have you got?

Do you know that thousands are married by church and state who profess love for each other but in reality and truth they do not?

Do you know that true love (spiritual love) between lovers of the mating age who become betrothed before God in nature, is the true marriage? Such marriage being made in heaven before the altar of angels, and the church and state can only sanction what has already taken place.

Did your husband before your marriage, as lovers, see the stars of eternity in your eyes, that love light that knows no end, that spiritual light that knows not death" If not, then I don't wonder why he is living with some other woman. And this woman has done better than you, she has given birth to a baby.

Living together unmarried by church or state is not near as wicked as being married by church or state and committing abortion.

Those who may marry by church or state and in truth do not love one another (although they may profess to, God only knows), such a marriage is adulterous. True love before God in nature, is the real marriage.

True love is creative, not destructive nor wasteful. Those who do not want children nor love children have no business getting married. If you love children, you will take one to raise, if you can't, have one of your own.—THESIS

Probably A Complex.

Dear Minerva: Just why should "Virtuous Wife" have received the verbal excoriation that was recently administered by our fairminded and even-tempered Minerva? Her viewpoint may, indeed, be based on faulty reasoning and erroneous conclusions influenced in some measure by selfishness and narrow-mindedness, which would, as a matter of course, occasion the inception and progress of impaired vision with its attendant distortion of views and concepts. And, because of this unwise policy of holding and disseminating these circumscribed opinions so dissimilar to the simple facts, the plain truth as recognized by those of us who possess keen perceptibilities, "Virtuous Wife" should be criticized and reproved, but why so severely, unkindly?

Now, bearing in mind that these accusations are not entirely without foundation, we should not, in fairness, lose sight of the fact that she evidently and to say the least possesses one highly commendable quality, sincerity, along with the courage and ability to speak in no uncertain terms of her beliefs and convictions. Assuredly then, while remembering her faults and failings, extreme narrowness of vision as exhibited in her strangely uncharitable attitude toward innocent children, we should take care to remember too, that she makes a strong plea in behalf of morality virtue, upright living. One could almost suspect from your unstinted disapproval and unqualified denunciation of the good lady's precepts that your sympathies and support are aligned on the side of wrong doing. We are glad, however, in the knowledge that such is not true.—CONSISTENT

A. I am beginning to suspect that I was a bit vitriolic, or at least, vinegary in my answer to "Virtuous Wife." I have known some smug, complacent, self-satisfied, self-righteous persons, entirely good and honest and virtuous, quite beyond reproach in fact, who nevertheless made me want to do something quite startling or say something quite naughty in front of them. Or to prick them with a pin to see if the sawdust would trickle out. Perhaps my reaction to the letter from "Virtuous Wife" was something of that sort. Probably a complex.

What Price Restraint?

Dear Minerva: I agree with the party who wrote about Sunday shows for Lincoln in your Mail recently. She was quite right in everything she said.

Just the other day I was talking to a ticket agent at the Union station in Omaha and he said, due to Lincoln being "dead" on Sunday all salesman desire to be routed so as to spend Sunday in some other place than Lincoln. Isn't that a fine reputation?

What's the matter with all these nicey-nice people of our city? Sunday movies never hurt anyone any more than they do on week days. Look at all the cars on the roads around Lincoln from 7 p. m. every Sunday evening. Why wouldn't a good show be far better for them than an all-evening "petting party." True, they would still have time after a show, but think how much better it might be.

Another thing, our handsome city would grow faster. People who want to settle in a permanent place desire one where they can relax over Sunday and forget their week-day trials. That cannot be done by just sticking around home and thinking. They will seek out larger places or perhaps smaller ones where they can have recreation and entertainment.

Why can't this be put to a vote and allow us to voice our sentiments where it will do some good?

Every time the writer goes to Omaha, Des Moines, St. Joseph, etc, he tells people he is from Lincoln. In response he usually gets an answer like this, "That dead hole," or "Do they still have a crepe on every highway running into Lincoln on Sunday?" or "Do they still take the sidewalks in at 10 p. m. every Saturday night?" Now that sounds good, doesn't it?

Let's have a happier, more prosperous and better city. One where people desire to come rather than to get out of. Respectfully, A VOTER.

Six Answer To Liquor Charges; Two Given Fines

Six persons charged with various liquor violations were arraigned in municipal court Monday afternoon, the result of activities of state sheriffs and Federal Agent Karl Schmitt over the week-end.

Two of them admitted charges and were fined. Otis Taylor pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of liquor. Judge Chappell fined him $100 and costs. Lee Barker admitted guilt on intoxication and was fined $25. On his denial of illegal possession of liquor, his hearing was set for May 1 and his bond at $500.

Ed Foster entered pleas of guilty to two counts of a complaint charging possession and intoxication, but sentence was deferred pending the hearing of the other cases. Foster is held as a state witness. His personal recognizance of $500 was taken for his appearance Saturday.

The other arraignments were: Oliver Meyers, possession, transportation, intoication; not guilty to each count; bond $1,500.

Katherine Wilson, colored, possession and transportation; not guilty to each; bond, $1,000.

Arthur Bowen, possession, sale, transportation; not guilty to each county; bond, $2,000.

All of the hearings were set for May 1.

Young Wise Says Will Not Become A Jewish Rabbi

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—James Freeman Wise, 23, son of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Jewish liberal leader, has renounced his intention of becoming a rabbi, and has severed all connection with organized Jewish theology. He is convinced Juadism as a religion "has ceased to play a vital part in Jewish life."

He studied two years to become a rabbi. Now he intends to work to bind the Jews of America together on other grounds than those of religion.

The modern Jew, the son thinks, is no nearer, however, to the acceptance of Christian doctrines.

The religion of the future "will deal with the earthly not the heavenly springs of human conducts," he asserts.

ENDORSE MUSEUM.

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP)—Proposal of a five million dollar industrial museum in Chicago was endorsed Monday by prominent business men. A committee of the commercial club of Chicago is promoting the idea, which was suggested by Julius Rosenwald. "Industry must find a substitute for the old practice of apprenticeship," said Charles Piez, president of the Illinois Manufacturer's association and a member of the committee. "It may be well to supplement the museum with an industrial school."

Radio Furnishes A Big Thrill For People of North

CHICAGO, April 27.—(AP)—Radio, which the average citizen has come to regard casually and accepted along with the automobile, airplane and telephone, retains its power to thrill the primitive Eskimo and isolated missionary of the northland. Programs broadcast from Miami and New Orleans cut through the cold nights to cheer the Arctic listeners and bring messages from the land of palms and cotton.

When the MacMillan expedition sailed into the Arctic regions last year, Com. E. F. McDonald, Jr., second in command, took with him twenty receiving sets to present to missionaries and he has just received a letter telling of their successful operation.

The Rev. H. H. Perrett, who has spenty thirty years in Labrador without a vacation, wrote that he had listened to music and sermons from broadcasting stations whose range had been far beyond his expectations.

"My farthest east has been Hamburg, Germany," said the Rev. Mr. Perrett, "my farthest south Miami and New Orleans and my farthest west a station in Nebraska.

"Unfortunately the nights are not all favorable for reception so we cannot depend on receiving, but the radio is certainly a tremendous advance. Our Eskimos are intensely interested listening in."

Ames Professor Speaks at Gamma Sigma Delta Banquet.

Says Agricultural Colleges Should Urge Graduates To Return to Farm.

Agricultural colleges of the present day are stressing too strongly the professional side of their educational program and not holding up a vision that will inspire the young college man to go back to the farm and put into practice the things he has learned, Prof. J. B. Davidson, of Iowa State college told members of Gamma Sigma Delta at a dinner in his honor Monday evening at the cafateria at the agricultural college campus. Members of the faculty at the station and the city camus, along with a group of former acquaintances at the college, were also guests at the dinner.

Prof. Davidson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1904 and established the present department of agricultural engineering, becoming the first instructor. He is on leave from Ames for a year and is making a survey of mechanical farm equipment for the federal department of agriculture with a view to gaining data whereby the government may furnish farm equipment manufacturers the essentials for determining new designs for more efficient agricultural mechanical equipment. It is hoped thereby to set up a higher standard of living in the rural communities.

There are instances, however, where college men are returning to the farm and applying their knowledge to the production of crops and livestock. Prof. Davidson continued. The ones who are making the greatest headway, he added, are those who are carrying on along with their other practices, the program of the agronomy department of the agricultural college.

Prof. Davidson explained where the agricultural engineer has a place in the development of rural industry and made a plea for greater co-operation between the faculties of the engineering department and the agriculturalists. Do this, he said, and it will make for greater development and efficiency on the farm.

Nebrasga Ranks First.

With the aid of charts the speaker showed that the agricultural worker of the present day produces four times as much as did the man seventy-five years ago per man power hour. This is one of the most striking developments of the industry, he believed. It was also shown by the charts that but three states have a larger farm machinery valuation per worker than Nebraska, but Nebraska ranks first in the value of crops produced per man.

Other charts were used to demonstrate that labor, which includes all classes of power employed, is costing far too much. It is in hopes of finding a way to reduce this figure, nationally, that Prof. Davidson is making his survey, he said.

In 1924, according to compilations, just sent Prof. Davidson by the United States department of agriculture and not yet published, 23 per cent of the cost of producing an acre of corn was presented in land, 52 per cent in labor and power and 25 per cent in other costs, for a total of $26.20 per acre. For wheat the labor cost was 45 per cent, land 26, and the balance other items. The total was given as $23.57 per acre.

The percentage of land costs and that of other items can be changed but little, the speaker declared, but there can be a reduction made in labor costs to the benefit of the farmer. Reports show, he said, that that the time required to handle an acre of corn had varied from three hours in Kansas, where the most modern machinery was used and they "hog down" the corn, to 300 hours in Vermont.

SOAP SOLUTION FATAL.

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—(AP)—A solution used to make soap, mixed with spoiled fruit juices, made a drink fatal to Everett Adams, 26, Ohio penitentiary prisoner, who died Sunday. Three other convicts, including "Big Jim" Morton, Cleveland robber, are in the hospital. The men, employed in the prison laundry, purloined the soap solution which a coroner's chemist found contained diluted wood alcohol, and drank it Saturday.

Briefly Told News From The Wires

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—Pierce D. Killian, former city commissioner and republican politician was instantly killed here last night when he was accidentally shot in the heart by a bullet from the revolver of Patrolman J. T. Wildhaber.

BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP) — The condition of Mrs. Arthur Capper, wife of the Kansas senator, was reported as "slightly improved" last night at the Maryland Hospital for Women, where she underwent a major operation several weeks ago.
